Job description

The Hans Foundation

The Hans Foundation (THF) is a public charitable trust, set up in 2009, that works to build a fairer society by supporting marginalised and underprivileged communities across India. It focuses on health and wellbeing for remote and under-served groups, with extra attention to children, persons with disabilities and women, and also works on education and livelihoods. THF works in Aspirational Districts and high-poverty areas in the North, North-East and East of India, as well as with low-income and migrant families in cities. In its 15 years, THF has reached more than 57 million people, both through its own projects on the ground and by supporting other not-for-profit organisations. This role sits within THF's Hans Education Programme in Jharkhand, which helps children catch up on learning and stay in school.

Role

The Tutor helps students in Namkum, Ranchi catch up in Social Studies and English, both inside schools and at Community-Based Learning Centres (CBLs). This is a part-time consultant role on a one-year contract. You will run remedial classes, build students' confidence, and work with parents and the community to bring out-of-school children back into education. You will report to the programme's mentors and Project Manager.

Responsibilities

- Conduct remedial classes in Social Studies and English, with personal learning plans based on each student's needs.
- Help students prepare for tests by reviewing content, giving practice tests and teaching study habits.
- Plan activities that build students' confidence, and give regular, helpful feedback to keep them motivated.
- Work with schoolteachers so remedial teaching matches what is taught in class, and track each student's progress.
- Run spoken English, communication, life skills and career preparation sessions at the CBLs.
- Carry out door-to-door surveys to find out-of-school children, hold awareness sessions with parents, and help enrol every child in a suitable programme.
- Keep accurate academic and attendance records, and share reports on home visits, parent meetings and CBL activities.
- Work with mentors and coordinators to meet programme quality standards, and take part in regular reviews and feedback sessions.

Requirements

- A bachelor's degree in Education, Political Science, Economics, Geography or History, with a master's degree in a related subject preferred.
- 1-2 years of teaching experience, preferably in remedial education or community engagement.
- Prior experience working with schoolchildren, especially in underserved communities.
- Proficiency in English, with strong communication skills for mentoring students.
- Working knowledge of MS Word and Excel for keeping records and preparing reports.
- Ability to do community outreach and build good relationships with parents, teachers and local leaders.
- Willingness to work in Namkum, Ranchi, in schools and in the community.

Benefits

- A one-year consultant contract with part-time hours.
- Direct work with students, families and communities that helps children stay in school.
- Regular guidance and feedback from programme mentors and coordinators.

- An equal opportunity workplace that welcomes women, persons with disabilities and people from economically and socially excluded communities.
